Best Buy & Minnesota Broadcasters Association to Release DTV PSA for August DTV Awareness Month

DTV Simplified* is available to all TV stations nationwide via their state broadcasters' associations for use through March 2009

What: Best Buy, together with the Minnesota Broadcasters Association and Apex Digital Incorporated, has produced a non-branded half-hour television program – DTV Simplified – designed to educate and inform consumers on the upcoming analog to digital broadcast transition. The PSA will be made available to broadcasters nationwide free of charge to be used during the government declared Digital Television Transition Awareness Month (August 2008) and through March 2009.

The hosted magazine-format program, which can be partially customized per local broadcast station needs, covers the topics of interest and concern to consumers nationwide including:

- Overview of the DTV Transition including historical information, the benefits of the transition and consumer options for complying
- Review of Converter Box Installation and Technical Issues including an overview of the converter box, and how to easily install the box to an analog TV
- Real World DTV Stories which follows the stories of three families as they prepare their homes to comply with the DTV transition
- The History of TV and how the DTV Transition marks the beginning of a new era
- Ask the Government Segment that highlights questions asked to top government officials at the forefront of the DTV transition.

How: State broadcasters' associations will notify television stations of the dates and times when DTV Simplified will be available via satellite feeds. Stations needing a tape dub of DTV Simplified should contact Linda Lasere at (612) 926-8123 and specify the required format.

When: DTV Simplified will be made available through satellite feeds to all broadcasters nationwide on Monday August 11, Tuesday August 12, and Wednesday August 13.

Why: On March 31, 2008, the FCC mandated that all broadcast stations air one 30-minute DTV-related educational program prior to the transition date of February 17, 2009 between the hours of 8:00 a.m. and 11:35 p.m. It is anticipated that many stations will exceed this minimum requirement. . Best Buy, along with the Minnesota Broadcasting Association and Apex Digital Incorporated, developed DTV Simplified in an effort to aid broadcasters with fulfilling this task and arm consumers with the information necessary to make educated decisions regarding the DTV transition.
